KENYON COLLEGE

Kenyon College 1824-1942

ALL the records that can be found in the libraries of Kenyon College show Philander Chase, Kenyon's far-seeing founder, to be a man of magnetic temperament, rare charm of manner, and distinguished physical beauty. He was without a doubt a born leader, a pioneer churchman, and a sturdy pillar in the foundation of American learning. In June of 1818 this tremendous personality was elected to be the first bishop of the state of Ohio. He left his comfortable home and quiet parish to organize his new diocese in the wilderness, he rode over a thousand miles within his first twelve months in Ohio; between times, working on his homestead like any other pioneer. He found that the greatest need of the New American West was trained men. Thinking men. Men educated, as well as reared, in Ohio's own hills and valleys. To build a college to fulfill this need was the fixed purpose of his life.

One night in June, 1823, after Bishop Chase had eliminated all possibilities of help on his project, a thought came to him—"A thought has struck me from Heaven—I will appeal to England for assistance. If the truth is known, they will help us." This was the real beginning of Kenyon College, for without this inspiration the original college could not have been financed. Bishop Chase went to England in the face of many difficulties and against the advice of all. He found a friend, however, in James, Lord Gambier, Admiral of the British Fleet. Lord Gambier introduced him to several of the most influential personages in England at the time, and helped him gain their support. After ten hard months of struggle he returned to America with about three thousand dollars given him by Lord Gambier; Lord Bexley, Chancellor of the Exchequer; Lady Jane King, The Right Honorable Dowager Countess of Rosse; and Hannah More, a clever literary leader and philanthropist. And so, after struggling desperately to gain the financial aid that would insure the future perfection of his college, the first bishop of the Northwest Territory returned to Ohio and founded the first college of the territory, receiving its charter in 1824. Kenyon College, steeped in the tradition and based on the best educational influences of the great English colleges and the sturdy educational pioneering of young America, was made the foundation of learning in the development of education west of the Alleghenies.

Kenyon has occupied a distinguished position among educational institutions in this country, ever since those days of Bishop Chase. It was originally dedicated to the cultural ideal and has clung to that ideal for the one hundred and nineteen years of its life. Kenyon has realized through all this time that men are best prepared for effective living if they have developed in them correct, properly directed, and well disciplined thinking; and that this development must be administered by the best educators, the best educational equipment, and the advantage of working under the influence of highly trained, understanding, and scholarly minds. The restriction of the number of undergraduates at Kenyon gives a man an unquestionable opportunity, both in the classroom and in outside activities. He lives in small groups and in a congenial atmosphere between student and professor which almost demands educational, mental, intellectual, and social development. This close personal relationship between professor and student permits an understanding of life as interpreted in education, activities, and fellow students that is not obtainable in any other way.

Kenyon, then, is of the collegiate rather than the university tradition. It consists of beautiful ivy covered buildings in the secluded rural setting of the Ohio hill country. The college, as a seat of learning, is devoted exclusively to liberal education. Its curricular and its extra-curricular activities are unsurpassed. Its social life and traditions mingle in an understanding among Kenyon men and between Kenyon men and their professors. The pages of this book try to show the result of the pages of Kenyon history—Kenyon today—the college buildings, the professors, the students, the activities of both, and the traditions of the college men of Gambier that make Kenyon College.

Down the Path

To the lover of architecture the buildings of Kenyon are the evidence of one of the country's most beautiful collections of college buildings. For the most part the buildings are perpendicular Gothic of the Tudor or Collegiate type. Bexley Hall has been called the most perfect building of this type in America. The design for this building was given to Bishop McIlvaine by Henry Roberts, the architect of the London Crystal Palace.

Down the maple-lined Middle Path, which is the axis of the college buildings and the village, through the gate and by the traditional freshman "jumping stone" to the College Park. The first structure past the gate is the College Chapel. It was built by the Church of the Ascension of New York and is covered with ivy that was transplanted from Melrose Abbey, England. The nine college bells in its tower ring the Westminster Chimes at the quarter hour.

Next to the Chapel is Hubbard Hall Library with its Stephen's Stack Room with some seventy thousand volumes. Then Peirce Hall (See color plate on title page), which has been called the most beautiful college commons in the United States, stands opposite stately Rosse Hall Gymnasium. Opposite is one of the oldest college buildings—Rosse Hall, an Ionic structure first built as the College Chapel.

Past Mather Science Hall, which is the next building on the right as we go down the path, with its gargoyles and stately Gothic exterior and its extra-complete scientific interior; and Ascension Hall with its ivy-covered reddish-grey freestone; we come to the fraternity divisions in the three dormitories, Leonard Hall, Hanna Hall, and Old Kenyon. Old Kenyon was built by Philander Chase from plans by Charles Bulfinch, the architect of such distinguished buildings as the National Capitol Building at Washington. The materials for this building were supplied by Philander's own quarry and lumber mill, which he built specifically for the purpose. The walls at the base of Old Kenyon measure four and one-half feet thick, built for protection against the Indians.

Over the brow of The Hill lies Shaffer Pool, one of the finest swimming pools in this part of the country. Last, and newest of the Kenyon buildings, is the new Speech Building, dedicated solely to the study of speech and dramatics.

- Turning right at the iron sign of Old Kenyon, on Highway thirty-six out of Mount Vernon, down a winding road to the little village of Gambier one comes to the stately buildings of Bexley and Kenyon.

- The Samuel Mather Science Hall, 1926, given in honor of his life long friend by Henry G. Dalton.

- Ascension Hall, Kenyon's third oldest building, was erected in 1857, mainly through the members of the Church of the Ascension in New York City.

- Leonard Hall, dormitory, 1924, given by Samuel Mather and other churchmen of Ohio, in honor of their Bishop, William Andrew Leonard.

- Old Kenyon, dormitory, the oldest college building, was erected in 1827 under the direction of Philander Chase.

ROBERT B. BROWN, '11
Alumni Secretary

The Secretary to the College

This fall Mr. Robert B. Brown, '11 (father of 2 Kenyon men) moved to Gambier to become the Kenyon College Alumni Secretary. He left his home and business in Chicago to devote his time completely to Kenyon.

For as long as the records of the Alumni Association show, the question of establishing an alumni officer on a full time basis at the College has been discussed. The matter culminated at the October, 1941, meeting of the Trustees, when a resolution was adopted creating the office of Secretary of the College. The Trustees prescribed the duties of the Secretary briefly as follows: to compile and keep a comprehensive catalogue of the alumni of the College, to make contact with all alumni, to revive and keep their interest in the College and particularly their interest in giving to the College, to give attention to local alumni associations and form new ones where needed. Mr. Robert Brown, '11, accepted the appointment to the new office in February, 1941, and opened his office on the Hill on May 5.

From a practical standpoint, the work of the Secretary of the College divides itself into two functions: first, as an assistant to the President on administrative matters, and second, as Alumni Secretary. In a broad sense the duty of this office is, of course, to act as an interpreter of the College to the alumni and of the alumni to the College and, by so doing, increase and vitalize alumni interests and support.

The Alumni Office has been open for seven months. There is still an enormous amount to be done, particularly in connection with the reorganization of local alumni groups. Kenyon has never enjoyed the kind of class reorganization through which most association work at other colleges is carried on. We, therefore, have to depend on local associations.

With Mr. Brown we shall undoubtedly have an adequate, smooth-running, alumni organization. His office is being organized to be one of the finest in the small college field.

BEXLEY HALL

(Canon Watson's Room)

"CANON WATSON"

All college men come to know that, however much their songs cluster, like the ivy they evoke, around remembered walls and pinnacles, the immortal part of their recollections, the inseparable part that goes with them in their altered selves, is the change wrought upon them by the few rich personalities in whose orbit they have for a while revolved. Around these rare centers, charged with learning, and wisdom, and humanity, they move like planets, taking their light from the midmost fire.

This is what men mean when they sing the praises of college halls and paths. It is so, that the affection of a half century of Kenyon men is focused on this window. Why this should be, let each one say for himself; for we know it is true.

"Canon Watson" has spent almost fifty years on the Hill as student and professor. He has, during this time, been professor of New Testament and Liturgics; and is, at the present time, serving as Chaplain to Bexley Hall. His services have not been confined solely to the Seminary, however. He has taught at various times in the college the formal courses in the department of religion, but he has also taught in private conversation and social discussion an increasing number of the men of Kenyon and Bexley. His gifts as a poet and artist compare with his work as priest and teacher. Kenyon's Hymn to the Holy Spirit, which he wrote, is a fitting symbol for one who has been so richly endowed with His seven-fold gifts.

The Seminary

Bexley Hall opened its One Hundred and Fourteenth year on Monday, September 22, 1941. The returning students and faculty welcomed as the new Associate Professor of Systematic Theology The Reverend Lawrence Rose, formerly of the Central Theological Seminary of St. Paul's University, Tokyo, Japan. The lecturer for the year on the Bedell Foundation was Professor Jacques Maritain, eminent French scholar of Columbia University. Immediately after the Christmas recess, it was announced that The Reverend Corwin Carlyle Roach, Griswold Professor of Old Testament Instruction, had been appointed the new Dean of Bexley. Thus a definite leadership was given to the future course of the seminary.

The second semester saw an addition to the faculty in the person of The Reverend Clifton Hartwell Brewer of Cambridge Theological School as Visiting Professor of Ecclesiastical History. The Easter Lectures in mid-April were given by Professor Charles Coffin of the English Department of Kenyon College, and the Faculty Lecture by Professor Brewer. The student body numbered eleven members: four Seniors, two Middlers, two Juniors, and three Special Students in residence at different times during the year. Dean Roach has begun an active policy for increasing the enrollment of the student body and enlarging the faculty. His administration gives promise of a new era in the history of Bexley Hall.

Kenyon Classes

Kenyon is known for its variety of methods for teaching classes. Aside from the regular classroom courses there is a series of seminars, conferences, labs, and informal discussion groups. The classes are all small and the seminars for the more advanced courses rarely include more than three or four men.

The evening seminars are often held in the library, professors' offices, and in many cases in professors' homes. The reason that this method of teaching is possible is because there is more than one professor to every nine men. All classes are small and stress personal contact. Lecture is balanced with discussion and scholarly informality is the result.

In this method of teaching is found the basis for the relationship between professor and student that extends into the leisure and recreational hours of both. In the class room and out—there is an informal exchange of ideas and knowledge that makes the Kenyon method of education unique.

Seniors

For many years most of the senior class officers were honorary in the non-functional sense of the word. This year, when war was declared, the offices of our leading seniors took on a new aspect. Their part in adjusting the college and the student body was a large and important one. They governed in a way best suited to the emergency. The senior class of Kenyon College is a real and forceful governing body. This year inaugurates the first of the "war years" in which the officers in this class will have a heavy responsibility and will be responsible for the maintenance of high college morale and cooperation in order to pull Kenyon and its students through the storm ahead.

Class of 1942

The Junior Class

For some reason, probably because of lack of necessity for organization, tradition has allowed the junior class to go completely without officers. The function of this class is, if anything, to put out the yearbook. The yearbook, therefore, is "The 1943 Reveille"—the book of the Junior class.

With the present accelerated program under way there is little doubt that the junior class will have to put aside its luxury of non-responsibility and carry part of the burden of the senior class. As a matter of fact the juniors will be combined with the seniors and make one class.

So, with this yearbook, the junior class can prepare to function as seniors and the present sophomore class can look forward to ever increased responsibility—for the duration.

The Sophomore Class

The Sophomore Class holds the proverbial whip over the Freshmen at Kenyon as in every other college in the country. This year the powerful Sophomores made the freshmen have regular line-ups to invoke their disciplinary measures. Drills were carried on, exercises for army conditioning, and many constructive duties. Many freshmen were shown the countryside in an educational spirit that is so typical of Sophomores. There was, of course, the traditional "crawl" ending in a non-traditional mud fight.

The Freshman hazing is important in college life and might even be said to be constructive in view of the present world crisis. Black-outs, for example, were practiced regularly in the Sophomores' untiring effort of training and "taking care of" Freshmen.

Slave Driver Bill Lane and his men turned out a pretty fair freshman class.

The Freshman Class

This year the College admitted one of the largest freshman classes in its history. It was large and strong. The hazing was quickly over when the Freshmen won the cane rush and built the biggest fire in the history of the college. The Freshman fire this year was a real victory fire—the football team won and the Freshmen were victorious in the cane rush.

With the hazing over, the class of '45 went right on to greater heights. They had one of the strongest set of freshman athletic teams the college has ever known. They are developing prominence on the campus in activities and the leadership of 'The First War Class of World War II' is large enough, strong enough, and smart enough to carry on an extra load of every phase of college life and make their college as well as their class successful in the present chaos.

Our Nine Divisions

Fraternities

Kenyon has an unique fraternity system in that the local chapters of eight leading National Fraternities are housed in college dormitories. The three college dormitories are divided, each into three divisions and the fraternities occupy eight of them. The independent men occupy one division, Middle Kenyon. Each division has its own governing body, house rules, common rooms, and competes as a unit in intramural athletics.

The fraternities have built up the unique and deeply traditional system of lodges, located in Bexley woods, where they hold Chapter meetings and initiations. The lodges vary from old cabins rich in tradition to new buildings of brick and stone.

The first Chapter of a national fraternity was founded at Kenyon in 1852 when feeling against secret societies was still strong with college faculties, and at Kenyon certain expulsion awaited all who should be discovered connected with them. Only when the members of the class of '54 were graduated with their badges prominently displayed were the authorities aware of the existence of a fraternity on the Hill, and at that time they decided to recognize it on the condition that a faculty member should attend the meetings.

At Kenyon is enjoyed all the advantages of fraternity life and few, if any, of the disadvantages. We have some of the finest chapters of some of the finest National Fraternities. Kenyon holds the pioneer chapter in the Middle West for several of the oldest and most respected of fraternities. The first fraternity lodge in this country was built on Gambier Hill; following it, and its pioneering representation, came seven more from the country's best social Fraternities.

Phi Chapter of Delta Phi

To Delta Phi belongs the unusual distinction of being both the oldest and the youngest of Kenyon's social fraternities: the oldest, because Delta Phi was established at Union College in 1827, the same year in which Old Kenyon was erected; the youngest, because the Phi Chapter at Kenyon was chartered in the spring of 1940.

From the start, Delta Phi has been a conservative fraternity. It has been the policy of the fraternity to limit its numerical strength, carefully selecting and choosing its chapters so as not to become a large organization. Delta Phi has expanded to only eighteen chapters (including inactive chapters at Harvard and Yale). The chapters at Harvard, Yale and Princeton have discontinued active relations with the other chapters due to the rulings of the faculties of those schools, although they retain their organizations as the "Saint Elmo" clubs, after the patron saint of Delta Phi.

The beginning of the Phi Chapter can be traced back to May 4, 1927, when a group of young men living in Middle Kenyon conceived the idea of forming a social, non-secret organization within their division. The new society was formed solely for the purpose of creating a stronger band of fellowship between its members and advancing their scholastic aims. It was named The Sterling Club, in honor of a former president of Kenyon and donor of a parlor in Middle Kenyon bearing his name.

During the mid-semester recess of 1929, with the consent of both faculty and alumni, the Sterling Club changed its residence to Middle Hanna and became a separate constitutional division. In February, 1931, a second step was taken, and the society was changed from a club to a local fraternity, Alpha Pi Tau.

During recent years the administrative activities of the local fraternity were directed toward an affiliation with a national organization. Many were considered and a petition was sent to Delta Phi. After a mutual investigation the petition of Alpha Pi Tau to Delta Phi for a charter was accepted, and on May 8, 1940, the Phi Chapter was officially installed.

During the summer of 1940 the new Delta Phi parlor was completed. Distinctly a modern gentlemen's parlor, it is furnished completely with Philippine mahogany and plush leather upholstery. Adjoining the parlor are a cheerful game room and a ladies powder room.

Kenyon Chapter of Alpha Delta Phi

Alpha Delta Phi was founded at Hamilton College in 1832 by Samuel Eells. The fraternity was rapidly extended, the first chapters being established either by the founders of the parent chapter, or those closely associated with them. It was the pioneer fraternity in eleven colleges and the second or third in eight others. As it originally sought students of decided literary tastes, it soon acquired a distinctive literary character, which in a great measure it has retained.

As the result of additions and withdrawals there are now twenty-seven active chapters and eight inactive. Twenty-four of the chapters are located from Maine to California, the remaining three being in Canada.

The Kenyon chapter received its charter in the year 1858. The first meeting of the chapter was held in the parlors of the Kenyon House, at which time the charter members were initiated by Brothers McDonald and Webb, of Miami. Succeeding meetings were held for a time in the rooms of the different members. Not content with this, steps were soon taken towards building a little, ivy-covered lodge "beyond the campus," referred to in Kenyon's favorite song, "When the Evening Shadows Gather." This was built in 1860 and has been in use ever since. It is believed to be one of the oldest collegiate fraternity lodges in the United States.

At the opening of the College in the Fall of 1898, the active chapter consisted of only one member, a senior, but some excellent men secured from the incoming students kept the chapter from becoming extinct.

The student body at Kenyon being small, the Kenyon chapter has never assumed large proportions. Her membership today is much smaller than that of the majority of her sister chapters. But this deficiency in numbers has only served to stimulate her energy, and the years which have passed since the chapter was established have witnessed marked improvements.

The progress of the Kenyon Chapter, then, has been neither in the way of numbers, nor in the improvement of her outward condition; but she has nevertheless made healthy progress, and met with abundant and gratifying success in producing outstanding men for all higher walks of life. In the pursuit of literature, the cultivation of friendship, and the preservation of the Fraternity's fair name.

Iota Chapter of Psi Upsilon

On November 24, 1833, at Union College (New York) Psi Upsilon Fraternity was founded. From its first seven members have developed twenty-seven active Chapters. Since its founding Psi Upsilon Fraternity has pioneered many advancements in fraternity life and in national fraternity organization. To Psi Upsilon is accredited the building of the first fraternity house; the first national convention of a Greek Letter Society (1841, New York City); the first fraternity catalogue of all its members, in 1842; the first fraternity song book, in 1849; and the first fraternity magazine, "The Diamond," in 1878.

Since Psi Upsilon was born and nurtured in the eastern part of the United States, seventeen of Psi Upsilon's Chapters were located at most of the old, historic Colleges and Universities east of the Allegheny Mountains. Its only inactive Chapters are at Harvard and Yale.

In 1860 the Iota Chapter of Psi Upsilon was placed at Kenyon College. This was the first time that Psi Upsilon had overstepped the boundaries of New England and New York. Yet Kenyon's Chapter became the "mother" of other Middle Western Chapters. After the turn of the century, two Chapters were established on the West Coast and three in Canada, all at outstanding institutions of higher learning.

In 1858 a group of young men with friendship and fraternity in mind were drawn together to establish a Chapter of Psi Upsilon at Kenyon College. Petitions were submitted and on November 24, 1860, the Iota Chapter was founded at Kenyon College in Gambier, Ohio.

For its first thirty years Psi Upsilon's Lodge at Kenyon was in the loft over a wagoner's shop. In 1890 a more modern Lodge was obtained, a two-story building on Wiggins Street. Then, in 1921, one of the two houses, now a faculty home, just west of the Kenyon College Alumni House was secured as a Psi Upsilon Alumni House and Lodge. In 1937 a new stone Lodge was built in the English Cottage style of architecture and replete with banquet facilities for one hundred men. Here, homecoming, initiation, graduation, and regular monthly banquets for members of the Chapter, its pledges and alumni are held.

During the eighty-two years of its existence the Iota Chapter of Psi Upsilon has shared and taken an active part in the ups and downs, the depressions and prosperities of college life at Kenyon and in the national existence of the fraternity, and is now considered one of Psi Upsilon's strongest chapters.

Beta Alpha Chapter of Beta Theta Pi

At nine o'clock on the evening of August 8, 1839, eight young men, students of Miami University at Oxford, Ohio, held the first regular meeting of Beta Theta Pi. The sixth fraternity in order of national founding, Beta Theta Pi has the distinction of being the first fraternity to originate west of the Allegheny Mountains and in 1839, when Ohio was but thirty-nine years of age; it was a pioneer association in every sense. Thirty-nine chapters were established during the next thirty years and today Beta's broad dominion boasts ninety active chapters, ranging from Maine to California.

The first step toward an important change in national fraternity organization was taken in 1872, at the convention in Richmond, Virginia. A General Secretary and a General Treasurer were elected, the first national officers ever to be chosen. Among other actions of the convention, a fraternity magazine was started and on December 15, 1872, the first number of the first college fraternity magazine came from the printer. The magazine has been issued continuously since that date. The second step in fraternity organization came in 1873 when the fraternity was divided into territorial districts; and the final step was taken when a Board of Directors was created in 1879.

The Kenyon chapter, Beta Alpha, was established on the Hill on April 18, 1879. Beta Alpha was the eighth chapter of Beta Theta Pi to be established in Ohio and the fifty-sixth chapter to be established nationally; and, although it was inactive from June, 1891, to September, 1893, it was revived by J. Edward Good and William B. Doyle and has continued to the present with an unbroken record.

Rising majestically among the trees near Chase Boulevard stands the Beta Alpha lodge, one of the most handsome buildings on the campus. Long before Peirce Hall was built, the fraternities had small eating clubs, and the Betas enjoyed their meals in the small wooden building across the street from the postoffice. When Peirce Hall was completed, the need for a lodge became evident, and in February, 1928, the land was secured and actual work was begun on the new building. Resembling a small Greek temple, it stands today as a symbol for Betas, old and young.

Lambda Chapter of Delta Kappa Epsilon

On June 22, 1844, a group of fifteen members of Yale University met together and held the first meeting of Delta Kappa Epsilon. In the same year, they issued permission to a group of Bowdoin men to become the Theta Chapter, and from there they developed rapidly. At the present time the fraternity consists of 48 active chapters, 10 inactive, four of which lost their charters in Southern institutions during the Civil War. The Phi Chapter remained at the head of the fraternity, assisted by the Convention, until 1882, when a council was formed. This Council now controls the organization of the fraternity, while the Yale chapter remains only as the mother chapter.

Lambda chapter of Kenyon was founded (Kenyon's first fraternity) on June 5, 1852, but the charter was not entirely official until January 17, 1853. The organization was a secret society in every sense of the word, for expulsion from college was the penalty for anyone known to be a member of such a society. The students for several years were required to use the old Bell Room in the third story of Middle Kenyon, a number of old barns, and an ancient log cabin, "surrounded by rank weeds and a dense setting of brambles and interlaced briars." When at the Commencement of 1854, D. K. E. pins were displayed by all its members, the faculty finally consented to lift the ban on secret societies, on condition that one member of the faculty be present at all the meetings. H. Lathrop, one of the founders, had since become a member of the faculty, and he was chosen by the chapter.

In the fall of '55, the members decided to quit their now unnecessary secret meetings, and build a meeting place. With an initial donation of five dollars from James Larwill, the sum quickly rose to fifty dollars and a twenty dollar oven, and with this the first building constructed entirely for the purpose of a fraternity was built—almost entirely by the members. This log cabin, the first fraternity lodge in this country, served the fraternity until 1871 when the decaying cabin was deserted for the present lodge. In 1924, during the centenary exercises of Kenyon College, a bronze plaque on a granite stone was placed on the immediate site of the old lodge.

Several members of the Lambda chapter have brought distinction to it. Most recently was Don McNeill, amateur tennis champion of the United States in interest is a Lambda Deke by the name of Dandridge, who edited the first volume of the third college year-book in the country, The Reveille.

Theta Chapter of Phi Kappa Sigma

Phi Kappa Sigma Fraternity was founded October 19, 1850, at the University of Pennsylvania by a group of seven men headed by Dr. Samuel Wylie Brown Mitchell. Since that time the Fraternity has maintained a conservative policy toward admitting new chapters, and has grown slowly and steadily to its present membership of forty chapters. The unanimous consent of the entire Fraternity is necessary for the admission of a new chapter.

At first, the Fraternity was concentrated mainly in the South and in the East. Now, there are chapters in nine of the Big Ten universities; there are two chapters in Canadian universities; the other Ohio chapter is at Ohio State University; and, Phi Kappa Sigma is active from New England to the Pacific Coast, from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico.

Until the Convention of 1869, the executive power of the Fraternity was invested in the Alpha chapter at the University of Pennsylvania. Since that time the general legislative and executive power of the Fraternity has resided in the Executive Board, which is composed of the Grand Officers, and in the Grand Chapter, made up of three delegates from each active chapter, the ten members of the Executive Board, one delegate from each Alumni Chapter, and the past Grand Alpha and the chapter visitors.

Theta Chapter of Phi Kappa Sigma was installed at Kenyon College, January 16, 1937. Formerly Zeta Alpha, admission to the national organization was brought about by years of interested effort on the part of David W. Bowman, Kenyon '14, Major Fred H. Zinn, Kenyon '01, Harlow H. Walker, Kenyon '29, and others. At the installation ceremony many former Zeta Alpha members were initiated into Phi Kappa Sigma.

Two members of the Kenyon faculty are members of the Fraternity. They are Dr. Walter H. Coolidge, Professor of Chemistry, who is the Chapter Visitor, and Charles C. Imel, swimming, basketball, baseball, and assistant football coach.

Unique on the Hill is the Theta Dads' Club. This organization is made up of the fathers of the men in the chapter. Meeting twice yearly, the club has as its purpose organized, positive support of the Fraternity.

One of the youngest chapters of a national fraternity on the Hill, Theta has developed quickly into one of the strongest well organized fraternities at Kenyon.

Chi Chapter of Delta Tau Delta

At Bethany College, Virginia (now West Virginia), in the year 1859, Delta Tau Delta was officially founded. Although Delta Tau Delta was actually and formally established in 1859, it might be said to have really begun 11 years earlier in 1848 when the Rainbow Society was founded at the University of Mississippi, which later became Delta Tau Delta.

For the first 25 years of its existence, the Fraternity was governed by an "Alpha," or principal, undergraduate chapter. Control was later vested in an Executive Council, which is now known as the Arch Chapter composed of ten members, all of which are alumni.

The fraternity was one of the first to put its Arch Chapter on a full time basis in an office where the sole job is to run Delta Tau Delta efficiently.

That Delta Tau Delta is not backward in establishing new fraternity principles can be proven by the fact that she was the first fraternity to place on her governing board an officer whose sole duty is to foster scholarship and also by the fact that Delta Tau Delta was the first of the nation's fraternities to do away with "hell-week," and the old fashioned paddle system. Delta Tau Delta was the first fraternity to establish a freshman training program in which the freshmen have meetings according to parliamentary procedure and discuss such topics as The Purpose of a College Education, after listening to recorded lectures by prominent Delts.

Chi Chapter of Delta Tau Delta was established at Kenyon in the spring of 1881, at a time when there were but sixty undergraduates in school. The early history of Chi was marked by a struggle for existence. In the late eighties there was but one man left in the chapter. This was Chi's Hank Eberth, Phi Beta Kappa and one-man track team. He kept the undermanned chapter alive and in possession of its charter by keeping his lonely position from the notice of the Arch Chapter by sending in regular monthly reports. He told in his reports that Chi had 100% attendance at every meeting, she had 100% of her men on Phi Beta Kappa, and every man was on the track team. He would take a sandwich to the chapter room, eat it, and send a report to the Arch Chapter to the effect that a banquet was held and every member attended.

And so Chi lives, developing from Hank's era—building its first lodge in 1902 (built entirely by the members of the chapter). It increased in membership and stature until now, in praise of Hank Eberth's efforts, Chi is one of the strongest of the seventy-six chapters in Delta Tau Delta.

Lambda Chapter of Sigma Pi

The Sigma Pi Fraternity was founded under the name of Tau Phi Delta at Vincennes University (Indiana) on February 26, 1897. On February 11, 1907, the fraternity met for the last time as Tau Phi Delta and assumed its present name and status as a national fraternity. As Sigma Pi it grew until now there are twenty-seven active chapters which hold charters. These twenty-seven chapters are scattered throughout the country from the University of California to St. Lawrence University in New York; from Emory at Atlanta to Oregon State in the Northwest.

On June 1, 1915, the organization of a new local fraternity was completed on Gambier Hill. One of the founders of this fraternity was Philip Wolcott Timberlake, '17 (now Associate Professor of English here at Kenyon). By drawing lots Timberlake was named president. On June 1, the first four members met in the card-room off the South Hanna Parlor to complete the organization and pledge the remaining charter members. Timberlake originated a Greek motto, from which the name Phi Gamma Phi was adopted, and a badge was immediately chosen by a committee. The new Fraternity was cordially received by faculty and students alike.

Rooms for a lodge were rented the following fall after a successful rush-week, and a meeting was held in the second week of the college year. The ritual was crude but the meeting was important. The ritual was steadily improved, needed paraphernalia were procured, a constitution was adopted, a coat-of-arms was designed by Canon Watson, and new songs were written and learned.

On the evening of May 13, 1916, Phi Gamma Phi marched up the Middle Path for the last time. Several hours later, Lambda Chapter of Sigma Pi marched down the Path from the K. of P. Hall where it had been installed by Byron R. Lewis, Grand Herald of the fraternity, after the acceptance by Convocation of its petition for a charter.

In 1924 Lambda moved to South Hanna where it has been ever since. In 1929 the parlor was completely redecorated, and the carved stone fireplace was built in memory of the late Past President, Edward McQuown. The Lodge was primarily an alumni project. It was dedicated at the same time that Lambda observed her coming-of-age birthday on June 11, 1937. Six charter members and fifty alumni were back on the Hill for the occasion.

Middle Kenyon

1942 marks a new era in the eventful history of Old Kenyon, the college's first and uniquely handsome building, whose cornerstone was laid by Bishop Chase on June 9th, 1827. During these far-off days, when it was necessary to build walls 4½ feet thick to protect the inmates from the additional possibility of hostile Indians, no one dreamt that the time would come in which Middle Kenyon would be a neatly-run student organization, laid out in well furnished rooms and hallways, the possessor of two large parlors, and a party room.

And now, as a last symbol in its progress, Middle Kenyon has adopted a crest, the combination of the old Kenyon arms and the longstanding spires which flank the building's roof. The "Father of the School," to whom so much has been given and so many songs written, thus commemorates the past and celebrates the present as the largest and oldest group in the college.

The students of Middle Kenyon, organized as a division since after the Civil war (though its present organization dates back to 1906, when it was re-decorated, and to 1926, when the first important constitution was drawn up out of the various documents of the previous half-century), represent those who prefer not to pledge a fraternity, who enjoy its free and traditional atmosphere of non-fraternity life. The building can house 90 men and there is a constant schedule of intramural activities and a yearly series of division parties, as well as three annual banquets. Popular election occurs among the members approximately a month before graduation, at which time are chosen a president, a vice president, a secretary-treasurer, a freshman disciplinarian, two Senior Councilmen, and two members of the Executive Committee. Any important business which may arise is taken care of at regular Tuesday night meetings. Middle Kenyon's general policy combines efficiency with as few rules as possible to keep its parts running smoothly and successfully.

During the past three years, amendments and revisions to its regulations have culminated in Middle Kenyon's present constitution, a thorough and practical piece of legislature. In these wild, incredible times, it is certainly a hopeful and vital thing to belong to an institution of this sort, capable, enthusiastic, determined.

Phi Beta Kappa

Phi Beta Kappa, which was founded at William and Mary College in 1776, is the oldest Greek letter fraternity in the country. In 1858 the fourteenth chapter was chartered — the Beta Chapter at Kenyon College.

The society was organized to encourage and to recognize excellence in scholarship, and high standing is an essential condition for admission. A scholastic requirement of 1.5 is required for six consecutive semesters before a candidate is eligible for initiation. Under these strenuous requirements an initiate must get the very highest scholastic attainments, and when he becomes a member of Phi Beta Kappa he has one of the highest scholastic honors that can be given to an undergraduate.

Student Assembly

The purpose of the Student Assembly (established in 1895) which includes all students, is to have an organization in which "the authority of the student body of college shall be vested." Of this organization there are two standing committees, the Senior Council and the Executive Committee. More committees may be formed by the president of the Assembly if he feels the occasion warrants it.

The Assembly formed a war committee, raised money for the Red Cross, and laid the groundwork for the quarterly system, which is being put into effect. The War Committee was appointed immediately after the declaration of war.

The ability of the Student Assembly as a whole, and its officers in particular, was remarkable in its outlining of student policy concerning the war.

Standing—Lumbert, Flynn, Elder.
Seated—Coxey, Stickney, Robinson (Sec'y), Sharpe (Pres.), Logan, Kaag, Jambor, Dean Hoag.

The Senior Council

This organization was founded in 1905 to act with the administration of the college in governing the student body. It is the most important organ in the student government set-up of Kenyon. It consists of one senior from each fraternity division and two from Middle Kenyon. Its primary functions are to maintain order and discipline on the college property and to deal directly with the administration of the college in regards to student-college rules and regulations. The lesser functions of the Senior Council are the supervising of Student Assembly elections and the Freshman-Sophomore activities.

The council meets at least once a month with the president of the college and discusses the student and college interests. It meets informally with the dean of the college each week. In these meetings the students' ideas and problems are conveyed to the college administrative committees, and the president and the dean present the college actions and decisions to be administered by the council.

R. Hamister, D. McLeod, Caples, Konopak, Coxey (Sec'y), Flynn, Sawyer, Goldsmith. Missing: R. Miller, Place.

The Executive Committee

The executive functions of the Student Assembly are performed by the two standing committees of the Assembly, the Senior Council and the Executive Committee. The Executive Committee, like the Senior Council, is composed of one senior from each division (two from Middle Kenyon) and in addition, two faculty members who serve as its chairman and treasurer. The business and financial affairs of the Assembly are exclusively in the control of this committee, without the consent of which no assessment or expenditure may be made in the name of the Student Body. This includes distribution of the Assembly Fee to the Athletic Department, the three student publications and to the various social committees. The only student officer on this committee is the Secretary of the Executive Committee, who keeps the committee minutes and records and assists the treasurer and the secretary.

The function of this committee was an extremely difficult one this year. The necessity for the curtailment of expenditures, the re-arrangement of contracts and the general financial retrenching kept this branch of the student government extremely busy. The worth of this organization was bannered by the efficient execution of their emergency measures.

Seated—Sharpe, Stickney, Logan (Pres.), Coxey, Brouse, Paolozzi.

Alpha Pi Kappa

Alpha Pi Kappa is Kenyon's only senior honorary society. It was established on the Hill in 1931. The purpose of the club may be defined by quoting a passage revealed from the constitution of the society concerning the requirements for candidacy: "The purpose of the organization is to recognize the merits of the members of the Senior Class through their participation and interest in campus activities, through their scholastic standing and their good fellowship; and it shall be further the object of the organization to promote at all times the welfare and best interests of Kenyon College. To carry on this purpose a junior is elected to succeed the senior members and maintain the policies of the society." The junior when first chosen becomes the secretary, to succeed the president upon his graduation.

With the world situation as it is today this organization is expected to become active as functioning member of Kenyon's student government. Its ideal is strong and its honor is great but its influence will be used in aiding co-operation between administrative, faculty, and student activities.

Student-Faculty Committee on the College and the War

The appointments to this committee were made immediately after the Pearl Harbor incident. The first meeting was held on December 11.

The committee outlined a plan to assist men who would soon have to enter the army. A new course in Trigonometry was opened; Military Science and its various divisions was inserted into the curriculum; and the present course in Economic Chemistry was enlarged to spend more time on explosives. The Red Cross drive was directed by this Student-Faculty committee. The new Rifle Range was erected on the airport and as direct answer to a suggestion by this committee. The two dollar defense stamp charge on the dance was the direct result of another more complicated plan submitted to this organization.

The Committee was and is a necessity. This year they accomplished the fundamental organizing which was immediately necessary. In the future it will stimulate the students and open their eyes to the crisis at hand; and, most important, will help them be ready when their time for action arrives.

Seated—McMurry, Sharpe, Dean Hoag, Professor Norton.

The Pre-Medical Society

Dr. J. C. Drake, one of the Pre-Med club advisers, has been able to open up the more practical side of medicine to the members through interesting movies on different aspects of surgery, and has supplied medical literature for discussions in meetings.

A pre-medical shelf in the library has been the object of some of the energies of the Club. Letters have been sent out at two different times to each alumnus of Kenyon who is now a doctor, requesting medical books. The shelf is already showing signs of becoming vitally important to the members in preparation for their profession.

Dr. Hardy Kemp, dean of the Ohio State Medical School, spoke to the Club members at one of their bi-annual banquets. Drs. Theodore Bliss and Marion Douglass also spoke to the Club.

The most important step of this year's activities was suggested by Dr. Thornton, another pre-med adviser. At his suggestion a Kenyon Alumni Medical Association is being formed by the Club. It will be made up of over a hundred doctors who has graduated from Kenyon. Some of the purposes of the organization will be to give scholarships to future Kenyon pre-medical students, and to further their medical studies. They intend to put out a small paper or bulletin which will contain alumni notes and activities.

The International Relations Club

This organization was founded at Kenyon in 1896 and is one of the oldest International Relations Clubs in the country. The Kenyon chapter is but one of many such organizations throughout the world. The national organization is run under the auspices of the Carnegie Foundation and the Kenyon chapter, as a member of this organization, receives about two dozen books for its club library each year from the foundation. The importance of this club is extremely relevant during the present world situation and it is the object of the club to keep its members well informed on all war developments.

The Carnegie Foundation sent to the college, through the International Relations Club, the very distinguished lecturer, Count Sarlo Sforza. This is indicative of the importance of the club to the college and its members.

Each year the I. R. C. sends delegates to the district conference. This year there were several conferences concerning the war and the members benefited by the exchange of constructive ideas.

Hika

KENYON MONTHLY LITERARY MAGAZINE

Hika Magazine was started in 1933. It had a rather spectacular but expensive existence as a campus personalities magazine for about three years. In 1936 it was forced to discontinue publication and it was not until 1938 that it was revived. At this time Dave McDowell, now secretary to the Kenyon Review, revived it as a strictly literary magazine. From this point on the editorial end of the magazine rose rapidly in fame among literary circles and Editor McDowell left it with the reputation in literary circles as "the best college literary magazine in the United States." The magazine has grown in reputation and has created a great deal of comment in its very outstanding literary features.

This year is the first year in the history of the magazine that it has been consistently financially successful. This fact has made it possible to extend the editorial program into the publishing of nine issues in the shortened academic year, including several special issues. A policy of diversification was maintained by the editorial staff and co-ordinated with a tightly knit financial budget to produce several widely acclaimed special editions and reprintings. Probably the most outstanding successful issue was "the Latin issue" in which were published, for the first time, a selection of Latin poems by Dr. Frederick Lamonte Santee with critical essays by Dr. John Crowe Ransom and Theodore Miller. The poetry of Dr. Santee is considered the best of the modern era. This publication of his work is considered by the great classicists of this country as one of the greatest contributions to the classics in recent years. This particular issue had three printings; its regular printing of four hundred copies, the printing for Kenyon College of three hundred especially bound editions, and a special printing of one hundred and fifty copies by the publishers to answer the demand for copies by eminent members of the Classical Society and professors and teachers of Latin in schools and colleges.

Standing—Toy, Cloud, Herrick (Asst. Bus. Mgr.), Lane (Circ. Mgr.), M. Smith (Ed.), Roselle (Bus. Mgr.), Cable, McGuire.
Seated—Goldsmith (Special Ed.), R. Weaver (Man. Ed.), Southard (Comptroller), Hemphill (Asso. Ed.), Logan.

A similar issue was published featuring the honors papers by the senior philosophy majors at Kenyon. This issue included a critical essay by Dr. Rice of the Philosophy department. Its reception paralleled the acclaim of "the Latin issue."

A very unusual and popular issue of a completely different nature than the magazine has ever published was the "Bunkhaus Memorial Issue" including the complete works of the late William Moenkhaus, an outstanding musician. He used this unusually beautiful impressionistic and nonsensical literary style as a diversion. In his plays and poetry the keen construction as well as the humorous notes will undoubtedly class his works as "great" among the unusual poetry and plays of our age.

The outstanding work that has been done on this publication has made it the finest in its field. The sound footing that it has established will undoubtedly insure it a permanent place among the great college literary publications.

The Kenyon Collegian

KENYON WEEKLY PAPER

The Kenyon Collegian, the college weekly which has become a bi-weekly for the duration, has led a checkered career since it first started reporting the antics of Kenyon men in 1856. The past decade has seen it grow noticeably in size and in stature. Within the past year, however, those who read college newspapers noticed something in the Collegian that was not there before. They saw reflected in the columns the fact that the Collegian had acquired a salaried editorial staff in place of one, solitary, wild-eyed, harassed editor. They noted that news coverage was more complete, that the editorial page was no longer a mere "gripe" page, that the paper was becoming technically alert.

The strides that the Collegian has taken have been due to the urgings and promptings of Editor-in-Chief John Goldsmith and his staff. The editorial policy, as outlined by Walter Elder, chief editorial writer, succeeded in awakening student thought on matters of national and local importance; an attempt was made to probe the reason behind administration policies. Among other things, the editors predicted the fall of a certain innocent backstop, they severely reprimanded someone for putting unslaked lime on the football field. In short, they were heard from editorially.

News coverage, as managed by Robert Vance, was complete and microscopic. The development of a corps of reporters, skilled in the manipulation of the five W's, has guaranteed the Collegian a succession of men with editorial capacities. Sports reporting under James Logan was vivid and experienced.

Since the addition of the Secretary's office to the Administration, the Collegian has performed a valuable service in acting as a vehicle for Administration-Alumni correspondence. Approximately eight issues a year are sent to all alumni with a slip sheet of alumni news added.

At this writing the staffs have changed, and a bevy of shining faces owned by various juniors and sophomores are now seen in the Collegian hideout in the basement of Ascension Hall. William Straus became editor-in-chief, Phil Merrifield is managing editor, Ed McGuire is associate editor, Bill Lehecka handles the sport page, Don Bowers writes weird feature stories, and Paul Henissart is chief editorial assistant. Under the new staff the tendency has been towards lightness and a more careful sifting of the material that goes into print. The Collegian, 1942, is out of swaddling clothes and finds itself ranked as one of the finest small college papers in the country.

The 1943 Reveille

The Reveille at Kenyon College is the oldest yearbook in this part of the country. Amherst College put out the first college yearbook — Kenyon the second.

In spite of this long history of yearbooks at Kenyon there is surprisingly little tradition connected with it. This book then, does not break tradition even though it is radically different from the ones of the past few years. We hope it will start tradition.

If the 1943 Reveille is not satisfactory—blame its editor, who is responsible for the wild ideas and mistakes. If it is a success congratulate the Managing Editor, Ed McGuire, and Associate Editor Bob Pennington who, as sophomore understudies, have had all the hard work to do on the editorial staff. Thank, too, Neale Hardy and Jim May, who worked for Business Manager Sam Fitzsimmons.

Good or bad, this book would not be in your hands at this moment if it weren't for the benevolence and hard work of The Manufacturing Printers Co., The Service Engraving Co., and the Andrew Stofan Studios, whose unpaid time and effort is especially appreciated.

The Hill Players

The Hill Players is an organization which is the honorary society to the Dramatic Club much in the same way as T. K. A. serves the debating and oratory teams. This organization was started by Dale Shaffer, son of the donor of the new Speech Building, in 1937. The purpose, according to the constitution, is to award recognition to those men who have been especially active in dramatics, either as an actor or as a member of the dramatic club's staff. Though there is no limitation set on the year in which a member may be elected, it has been established by precedent that there is usually only one sophomore and the rest juniors and seniors. The elections take place at the end of every year, and new members are elected by the old. The president of the Dramatic Club usually takes over the duties of presidency of the Hill Players.

The Dramatic Club

The Speech Building, $50,000.00 project just completed this year, houses the finest theater in this part of the country—one of the finest college theaters in the United States. To direct the new dramatics program Stanley Anderson, of Cleveland Playhouse fame, came to direct the plays. He opened his season last fall with Shaw's "Captain Brassbound's Conversion," which was followed by Moliere's "Don Juan."

With the opening of the second semester Mr. Anderson became a member of the College Faculty and took complete charge of play production. Under his direction he produced the play version of "Brother Orchid," and less than a month later "Song Out of Sorrow," the manuscript play built around the life of the English poet, Francis Thompson.

With the new elaborate stage equipment, lighting effects, sound effects and many exceptional props helped to make Mr. Anderson's exceptional direction result in some of the most ambitious and successful plays that Kenyon has ever produced.

Tau Kappa Alpha

Tau Kappa Alpha, the National Honorary Forensic Society, established its Kenyon Chapter in 1936, at which time Lowell Thomas was president of the Society. At present the number of chapters runs to about one hundred, spread out through the prominent colleges and universities of the country. The Kenyon Chapter has been prominently active since its founding.

Election to the society is an achievement for those men who have proved exceptionally capable orators and debators. New members are elected each year by the men already in the society from the group which has participated in intercollegiate competition for at least two years.

Debate

The Kenyon Debate team competed in over 40 different debates this year. Throughout the season more than 20 men participated in outside debates and innumerable more participated in class debates, etc., on the campus.

Kenyon, aside from its regular debates with other Ohio colleges, participated in the Intercollegiate Debate Conference, the Ohio Conference Debate Conference, the Invitational Debate Conference (at Delaware), the Legislative Assembly at Oberlin, and the Pan American Discussion Conference held by the State Department in Columbus. All in all, the team met about 15 different Ohio colleges.

Speech and debate at Kenyon has reached amazing heights for this size college. The amount of debate activity at Kenyon is extremely large and successful.

The Kenyon Klan

The Kenyon Klan, lettermen society, was established in 1933. Its faculty advisor, Coach Rudy Kutler, and its two honorary members, Dr. Ashford and Dr. Bumer, outlined the purpose of the club as the moral group of the college. It is made up of Kenyon's finest athletes who must maintain a high scholastic standing to be eligible for membership. The new members are elected after each athletic season by a unanimous vote.

The Klan has several projects to raise money to help provide for worthy projects in the college. To keep up its income in these worthy projects it prints a yearly advertising blotter.

The Klan, makes all the plans socially and otherwise, for Homecoming and Dad's day and puts on a big smoker for the benefit of the Dads. Its private functions consisted of regular meetings, initiation, and a Christmas party. Each year, the two honorary members give the Klan a picnic which is the highlight of the Klan's social activities.

Cheerleaders

Last year three students, two of whom had done some cheer-leading previous to their coming to Kenyon, resolved, with the help of Mr. Kutler, to build up the declining college spirit and to instill into the crowds more enthusiasm than had been previously shown. Before, the students were attending only those games in which Kenyon was favored, but the cheerleaders worked methodically. Their attack on the college was organized carefully. They insisted that crowds cheer and yell at the games, they innovated football rallies before the out-of-town games, they created a following for the team at these out-of-town games. In this last effort, the Capital game at Columbus proved their success. The crowd there was as large as it had been at many past home games.

It was through their effort that the new Quarterback Club functioned in creating football interest. The success of the teams can be accredited to the coaches, the players and the cheerleaders. This new addition to the Kenyon sports world is a great one and is greatly appreciated by teams and coaches, as well as the student body.

Flying Club

The importance of this club can be easily proved by the number of Kenyon men now in the service of the country as pilots. The pilots of Kenyon have maintained a field and club room in cooperation with Kenyon's excellent Aeronautics department. The club boasts one of the finest small fields and hangar set-ups of any college in the country. Its famed record proves the excellence of its pilots.

The Aronca is dismantled now for the duration but the club will continue. There is much work being done to prepare members for a place in the army or navy of civilian air patrol. Navigation and Meteorology being still offered by the college, the club expects to continue Kenyon's interest in aviation through this type of cooperation by the college.

Hallock Hoffman, Kenyon's ace instructor in practical flying and Meteorology, is now one of the flying instructors at Ryan but as soon as the law permits small field, private flying, there will be another instructor to take his place.

Dance Committee

The dance committee, whose purpose it is to secure orchestras and make other arrangements for the Kenyon Dance Week-ends, was this year composed of Earl Walbridge, Robert Weaver, and Kenneth Burke.

For the Fall Week-end they secured Will Osborne, Earl Hood, and Tommy Van, playing on Friday night, Saturday afternoon, and Saturday night, respectively. The declaration of war nearly curtailed the activity of this committee, however. The situation: A faculty committee formed to investigate the possibilities of shortening the second semester made the suggestion that the dance week-end be eliminated. This suggestion was accepted by the faculty. A storm of protest arose, and what with the student assembly taking a violent stand on one side, and the faculty and the senior council discussing the matter reasonably on the other, the situation was finally brought to an end, and a compromise was met. It enabled the dance committee to make possible a defense stamp dance that made the sale of a large amount of stamps as well as a much needed dance week-end. For defense, the faculty wholeheartedly approved an informal dance week-end operating on a small war budget.

The Kenyon Kats

This year, the first for several years, there is again a college dance band on the Hill. This enterprise was begun by Neil Hardy as a sort of extra-curricular activity for those who might be interested. At its first meeting, in the lounge room of the Commons, five men appeared. Since that first "session," five men have been added by virtue of countless telephone calls. With the addition of these new men, not only the quantity, but the quality of the band was increased. The presence of this dance band on the campus has opened up several possibilities such as playing for College dances and other College activities, as well as jobs in Mt. Vernon and Gambier.

The College has provided music and stands and the band's job income will go for further equipping the band for a while. The present preparation is for the continuance of the organization this summer—at which time it hopes to be one of the best college dance bands in this part of the country.

Kenyon Singers

The Kenyon Singers, directed for the last five years by Mr. Weist of the faculty, enjoyed one of its most successful seasons this year. Unfortunately, this will be Mr. Weist's last year as director of the club.

Undoubtedly the highlights of the season were the concerts with Flora Stone Mather at Western Reserve in Cleveland (March 21st); the home concert at Kenyon (March 26th); and the Mansfield concert (it is the fifth consecutive year the singers have had this last concert).

The club was a group of about forty members and sang a complete program, having a traveling library of about twenty numbers. It is hoped that the excellent start the club has been given by Mr. Weist will be continued to the degree of perfection that they already hint. In the ten or twelve years of the present organization of Kenyon Singers, there has been a steady increase in excellence and popularity which is in no small way due to the untiring efforts of Mr. Weist.

The College Choir

The chapel choir, under the direction of Leonard Snellman, this year provided music for both the regular morning service and the choral evensong each week. The position of the choir has been greatly elevated since several of Kenyon's most outstanding singers have been taken into the organization. The resulting improvement in the choir was marked by the presentation of a Te Deum in anthem form and the inauguration of a new and modern communion service. Membership has been restricted, and a waiting list now exists. Director Snellman hints at the potentiality of still further improvements for the coming summer when he hopes to transform the organization into a mixed chorus of Kenyon men and several young women from Gambier.

The outstanding events of the past year are the Christmas Carol service in the chapel last December 14 (1941) and an evening service in Grace Church, Mansfield, Ohio, on December 7. The Mansfield service was so well received that it will probably be an annual event.

The choir is accompanied by Organist Ted Miller. Fred Alpers is librarian, a newly appointed post this year. The present membership is about twenty.

The Acolytes Guild

This organization started four years ago and is made up of men interested in the church and who assist in the services. Their primary duties are assisting in the service of Holy Communion.

The Guild is one of Kenyon's strong links between the church and the college proper. Faculty advisor, Reverend Barrett, has done much to instruct the members and to encourage this relationship. The head Acolyte is Bruce Crittenden who organizes the members to their chapel duties.

There are twelve members in all and the work they do is important and interesting. The organization has been made extremely popular through Rev. Barrett and its continued success as one of Kenyon's important activities is hoped for.

Although it is not required that the members should be pre-theological students it serves a great purpose in forming a practical preparation and familiarity with various mechanics of service.

Intramural Board

This year's Intramural Board had a particular problem on its hands rearranging the intramural program to fit the accelerated program. Kenyon has a very extensive intramural program and the work done by this board keeps this vast program running smoothly.

A predominant number of Kenyon students owe their athletic portion of college life to the Intramural Board. Those who do not participate in varsity sports are offered a large and various selection of intramural sports, ranging from touch football to billiards. The board is one of the most active organizations on the Hill.

Motion Picture Committee

One of the outstanding college committees to offer a real help to the college program in this year of no tires and less amusement expenditures was the Motion Picture Committee, headed by Art Cox. They put on first rate movies in Rosse Hall thereby making it possible for the college to have one movie a week without going off the Hill.

The committee offers a season ticket to students and gets a schedule of first rate pictures and shorts. This year an added attraction of a serial was presented.

This committee plans extensive expansion in their program "for the duration" so the college student of the war can get his movie entertainment on the Hill.

Riding and Polo Club

The Riding and Polo Club, one of Kenyon's most prominent organizations, is composed of most all the outstanding horsemen in college and headed by the Director of the Kenyon School of Equitation, Captain Eberle. The group includes polo players, jumpers, park riders, and team drill riders.

The Club can be said to have originated in 1936 when the Kenyon Polo Club was formed to promote a college polo team. In 1937 and 1938 Kenyon's polo team was nationally known. In 1939 it was forced to disband because of lack of players. In 1940, however, it started up again and played several games and this year a continuation of this start was carried out.

The Riding Club, formed of students and faculty alike, has horsemanship movies, lectures, banquets, and sponsors an intra-mural riding contest every year.

The Kenyon Jumping Club

This year the jumping team developed into a club. The club stresses excellence in Olympic jumping on horseback. Its members are the top equestrians in college.

Last October, undermanned because half the team played football on the same day, Kenyon beat the crack Culver jumping team by a score of 540 to 532. Then in December the full team went to Culver and tied the score but took the blue ribbon for the highest individual score. This same success continued on into the spring in a triangular meet with Michigan, Culver and Kenyon participating.

The team formed into a club in March and offered a trophy for the winner of a club-sponsored jumping contest—the winner being eligible for membership in the club.

It is the plan of the club to erect a hunt course to be used in competition during the summer months. Men who prove their excellence in jumping will be eligible for membership in the club and will be able to participate in club competitions.

Philomathesian

Founded in 1827, before the college had moved to its present site, Philomathesian is one of the oldest societies of its kind in this country. In 1832 the Society split. The parent society continued as the rival to the offspring, known as Nu Pi Kappa. Such members as Edwin M. Stanton, later Lincoln's Secretary of War, and Rutherford B. Hayes, nineteenth president of the United States, were strong influences in its early development.

This year the Philomathesian Society organized a program which placed its activity higher than that of many years previous. Four years ago the society had but four members. Today it has many times that number. They have instituted banquet meetings and discussions. They have had such outstanding papers read as Carl Djejrassi's, "Life in Bulgaria."

The highlight of the year was the restoration of the traditional Washington's Birthday debate between Philomathesian and its rival society, Nu Pi Kappa. Philo was represented by two of their best speakers, James Logan and John Goldsmith.

The Commercial Committee

This committee was formed this year to control and protect the many business organizations on the campus. Bill Lewis, its founder, worked out the program of the committee to include licenses for every business that sold anything on the campus. The effectiveness of the work of this committee is most remarkable and its intelligent control of campus business organizations is extremely beneficial to the members of the college and the organizations themselves. Any business organization that is sanctioned by the Committee of Commerce is thoroughly investigated and the students of the college can be very sure that they will receive fine service and good quality and the organizations are sure that the competition will be intelligently controlled and they will get a fair price.

Nu Pi Kappa

"In consequence of the misjudged and censurable conduct of certain members of the Philomathesian Society, a party spirit was excited, dividing the Society into Northern and Southern, and making it advisable and almost necessary for the individual improvement and well being of the whole, that separation take place."

Thus from the first pages of the first book of minutes of the Nu Pi Kappa Society, we see the formal break of a society in 1832. After the break, vigorous rivalry, stimulated to a climax by the Civil War, followed. This rivalry still exists in one of the oldest and finest of Kenyon traditions.

This year Nu Pi Kappa showed signs of strong reorganization by winning the renewed traditional debate with Philomathesian.

Early in the history of the two societies, Washington's Birthday became the traditional date for a debate. This year this tradition was reestablished. Arguing for Nu Pi, Sam Fitzsimmons and William Lewis won the debate with a 2-1 score.

Rifle Club

The Rifle Club at Kenyon College has promise of being one of the finest in the country. With the airport closed the club has erected a rifle range on the field and is using the Flying Club room for a club room. The hangars will be converted into a pistol range and indoor rifle range. Mr. Williams, instructor in the National Rifle Association, is devoting his entire time and expert attention to the training of Kenyon marksmen.

The basis of the club is to instruct men in the art of army field shooting and prepare them in the care and handling of guns. The club and the club-sponsored intramural shooting includes a very large number of men in college and the organization promises to be one of the most important in college.

The Ryebucks

Motto: Nugas magno cunato magnas

This fine old society was created in the autumn of 1935 by a small group of high-minded young men. These founding members, the optimates of their generation, weary from having seen and done all things, aware from experience that carpe diem is inevitably followed by peccavi usque ad nauseam, had come to the conclusion that the only way to achieve contentment is to withdraw periodically from the maddening rush of crowds to the musty quiet of an undercroft or to the spring-cooled shade of a secluded glade and there in the company of their congenial selves alone to quaff the inspiration of their own spirits. And so, they organized themselves into a little brotherhood, worthily known as the Ryebucks, whose sole end is benevolence, whose only activity is living the good life, and whose noble thoughts are the essence of golden philosophy and highest poetry.

Kenyon's Athletics

"RUDY" KUTLER

Kenyon College has held more championships in the last few years than any other college in Ohio. Its lists of firsts run high in numbers of championships, even on a national scale. Kenyon has, over the years, one of the greatest sports records in the country—and the least publicized.

Consider Don McNeill, who started Kenyon off on its record of wins and championships in tennis that cannot be equalled by any college in the country. Kenyon has taken the Ohio Conference championship almost every year without exception for many years. Don McNeill's Intercollegiate Singles crown in 1940 and his supreme crown as National Champion in the same year gives Kenyon an unequalled national champion. He won more titles than any other collegiate will ever hope to win. Morey Lewis, too, held such titles as Canadian National Champion.

Kenyon's polo team is undefeated and is an offspring of a Kenyon polo team that beat Princeton and Cornell and played Yale for the Intercollegiate Championship a few years ago.

The Lords' swimming team, under Chuck Imel, have in six years of existence won 71, tied 1, and lost 7 dual meets. In six conference championship meets Kenyon has won four and lost but two (being second in these). Of the eight conference records, seven are held by Kenyon men.

Last year Kenyon won the first lacrosse game ever to be played west of the Alleghenies. Here again Kenyon pioneered its way into the midwest championship by defeating the University of Michigan, placed a man on the winning team in the National All-Star game, and introduced another sport along with team horse jumping to the midwest as it introduced football back in 1888.

These records and sports hours have all been done without publicity, without subsidization, and with the bare minimum of coaching staffs and equipment. Along with such great coaches as Chuck Imel and Bruce Barnes, the makers of national champions, is the powerful personality of one man in particular who has done so much to make Kenyon sports what they are. The morale and love of sports that makes Kenyon one of the country's most outstanding small colleges in the field of sport was built up largely by this one man. This man is the head of the small but powerful Kenyon athletic department—Coach "Rudy" Kutler.

CAPT. "GABE" PAOLOZZI

Football

Kenyon College opened its 50th year of intercollegiate football on the 10th of September. Coach Rudy Kutler in his first year as head football coach had 29 men report for practice. As the time for the first game drew near, it was apparent that the 1941 squad would be the best conditioned outfit ever to wear the purple and white. This was due mainly to the fact that Capt. Gabe Paolozzi and the entire squad took the training rules that Coach Kutler set down very seriously.

On Saturday, October 4, the Lords engaged Otterbein College in Benson Bowl. The game ended 12-7 in favor of Kenyon. Monck scored both of the Lord touchdowns, by runs of 48 and 4 yards. Both the linemen's and backs' offensive blocking approached professional efficiency.

On a windy Saturday afternoon at the River Campus Stadium in Rochester, N. Y., the Lords fell before the strong University of Rochester Yellow Jackets, 13-0, in an unimpressive game which was witnessed by approximately 4,000 football fans.

On October 18, the Kenyon Lords suffered their second 13-0 defeat in a row, bowing to the Student Princes of Heidelberg in a rain-drenched homecoming game on Benson Field. The outstanding feature, as far as statistics go, was that the Lords had the edge; they outgained Heidelberg on the ground and gained more through the air. The Purple and White eleven compiled 13 first downs to the visitors' 5.

The Kenyon Lords won their second game of the year at the expense of Capital U, 13-0, on Saturday, October 25. The triumph marked the first time that Kenyon had defeated the Lutherans since 1932.

Hard tackling and clean blocking brought Kenyon a 20-7 victory over the Yeomen of Oberlin on Saturday, November 1. A shivering crowd saw the Kenyon gridgers defeat Oberlin for the second time since 1892.

STAR PUNTER — HERRICK

While a driving, wet snow swept across Benson Bowl, the powerful Kenyon Lords put on a show that the chilled Dad's Day crowd won't forget for a long time. Pushing a woefully undermanned Ashland eleven up and down the soggy turf, Rudy Kutler's charges rolled up a 51-0 score.

On a wind-swept field, the Kenyon Lords downed a stubborn Allegheny eleven at Meadville on Saturday, November 15, to end the season in a blaze of glory.

The current record of 5 wins, 2 losses marks one of the best Lord seasons in two decades. Players+Harmony+Condition resulted in the best Kenyon football season in two decades.

Back row—D. Searles, D. Taylor, P. Herrick, C. Irvin, H. Long, G. Paolozzi, E. Chamberlain, R. Eckley, P. Cloud, M. Monck, W. Perry, B. Weaver.
Middle row—D. Ross, W. Lehecka, B. Johnson, R. Lynch, P. Daughton, R. Weaver, W. Lane, H. Grace.

Basketball

Charles Imel started his first season as basketball coach at Kenyon with fifteen boys on hand. After the conditioning and weeding out period was over, the team boiled down to ten men.

The Purple and White five downed Bluffton 71-57 in ancient Rosse Hall in the first opening game victory for a Kenyon team in six years. Gambier's gift to Kenyon College, Russ Lynch, was high point scorer of the game with 20 points.

On December 11, the Kenyon Squad journeyed down to Denison and scalped the Big Reds in their Wigwam to the tune of 52-46. Tom Smith and Russ Lynch stood out, massing a score of 17 points apiece.

The Kenyon Lords had a field day at the expense of Ashland College in their tilt at Rosse Hall. The score read 73-38 at the final gun. Don Bateman and Russ Lynch scored heavily for the victors, garnering 26 and 23 points respectively.

In the last home game of the season the Kenyon squad handed Denison their second defeat at the hands of the Lords, 52-46. Paced by the sharp-shooting of Russ Lynch and Tom Smith, who scored 18 and 16 points respectively, the Lords came from behind in the last quarter of play to chalk up their seventh win of the year.

Ending with eight wins against seven defeats, this year's Kenyon five starts Kenyon again on the upswing after a few off years. The 1941-42 squad erased the old team total scoring of 606 points in 19 games by totaling 767 points in 15 games. Russ Lynch set a new Lord individual scoring record of 211 points, bettering Sebach's 188 point record chalked up in 1938. Captain Elect Tom Smith also bettered the old mark. With only three seniors graduating, the squad can look forward to an even better season next year. With Captain Elect Tom Smith and Russ Lynch, the two sophomore scoring aces, returning, the team will have a strong nucleus upon which to form another winning team.

Standing—Doughten, Herrick, Jenkins, D. Taylor, Davis, Shaw.
Kneeling—Bateman, T. S. Smith, Anderson (Capt.), Berno, Lynch.

CO-CAPT. "FRED" HENSCHEL

CO-CAPT. "BILL" SMEETH

Swimming

The tankers opened the season by dumping Slippery Rock Teachers, 47-26, in the Shaffer Pool. The Lords took seven firsts out of nine events to run their string of victories up to 13 in dual meets. On Saturday, January 10, the undefeated Kenyon mermen submerged Case School of Applied Science, 54-21, in the Shaffer Pool before a capacity audience of enthusiastic students. The outstanding performance of the afternoon was turned in by Bill Blacka, who swam the 100 yard freestyle in 55.4 seconds for a new pool record. The Lords won eight of nine events in running their streak up to fourteen wins. Bowling Green State University was the next victim of the Kenyon natators. The Lords chalked up seven out of nine firsts in winning, 47-26. Then, in winning every first place, the Kenyon Swimming Team extended their dual meet winning streak to 16 straight by beating Wooster in the Shaffer Pool on February 10. In the next meet, Bill Blacka (national junior backstroke champion) set a new pool record in the 100 yard freestyle race as the Lords downed the University of Cincinnati, 49-25, in the Shaffer Pool. The Kenyon natators won eight out of the nine events in gaining their 17th straight win. For Kenyon's first defeat in 18 starts, the Oberlin swimmers pulled a startling upset at Crane Pool on February 17 by defeating Kenyon 39-36 to become threats to Kenyon's "Four-Year Ohio Conference Champions" record. The Lord 300 yard medley relay trio lost for the first time this year.

Jolted by the Oberlin defeat the University of Pittsburgh Panthers handed the Kenyon Lords their second straight defeat.

The Kenyon Lords finally had to relinquish their hold on the Ohio Conference Swimming title. In the seventh annual championship meet held in the Shaffer Pool on Saturday, March 7, the Lords finished second to a well balanced Oberlin squad. The illness of Bill Blacka, Ace Lord freestyler and backstroker, who was in the hospital, was a main factor in the downfall of the Purple and White natators. This meet concluded the 1941-42 season for the Lord tankers; their record for the year was five wins, two losses, plus second place in the Ohio Conference Meet.

Coach Imel's record at Kenyon stands at 71 dual meet victories, 7 losses and 1 tie. In six Conference Championship meets his Lords have walked off with top honors on four occasions. The current squad received some tough blows when Sam Cook and Co-Captain Bill Smeeth went into the army, to say nothing of the kidney injury which forced Bill Blacka out of the Conference Meet. All in all it was a highly successful season.

*First row—May, Kingery, Henschel, Brouse, Blacka.

CO-CAPT. "PAUL" HERRICK

Baseball

The baseball season for the Kenyon nine started immediately after spring vacation. The roster at the start of the season included Co-Captain Bert Johnson and Warren Moore behind the plate. Co-Captain Paul Herrick, Bud Southard, Walter Elder, Bud Owen, and Bert Jenkins on the mound. Infielders: Bill Lehecka, Don Ross, Myron Monck, Tom Smith, Dave Taylor, and Jim Persons. Outfielders: Heinie Driver, Phil Doughten, John Tyler, Don McLeod, and Chuck Irwin.

The Lord schedule included Oberlin, Otterbein, Wittenberg, Ashland, and Wooster, numbering seven games in all, two each being played with Otterbein and Ashland. The schedule was cut down due to the accelerated program.

Coach Charles Imel counted on Sophomore Bert Jenkins to take over a large portion of the hurling chores; because big Paul Herrick had to divide his pitching duties with playing in the outfield. Elder and Southard made up a very formidable relief staff. At the start of the season Coach Imel was of the opinion that the 1942 baseball season would be the best a Kenyon team has enjoyed since Chuck took over the coaching reins.

CO-CAPT. "BURT" JOHNSON

First row—Garver (Mgr.), Persons, Lehecka, Herrick (Co-Capt.), Johnson (Co-Capt.), Driver, Moore, Connor, Dulabon, (Mgr.)
Missing—Jenkins, Irwin.

CAPT. "KEN" KINGERY

Track

The track team, under the tutelage of Rudy Kutler, was summoned to don the spikes and shorts the week of March 9. Led by Captain Ken Kingery, the squad reported in high spirits. The team numbered 16 men, namely: dash men Jack Konopak and Dave Posner; distance men Dick Storm, Len Snellman, Ken Kadney, Ken Kingery, and Johnny Allen; Dick Penn and Andy Anderson, pole vaulters; high jumpers Bill Straus and Gil Collyer; Bill Wilson, discus; Bob Ahrens, javelin; low hurdles, Bob Kohnstamm and Don McLeod. The track schedule called for meets with Fenn, Otterbein, Capital, Allegheny, Wittenberg, and Hiram. Several of the men competed in several events. Jack Konopak ran in the dashes, and he also entered the 440. Len Snellman ran the 880 and the mile. Dick Penn competed in the pole vault as well as the high jump. Gil Collyer ran the hurdles, and found time to enter the high jump. Big Bill Wilson used his massive frame to heave the shot and throw the discus.

The track team did not actually go out of doors much before the 1st of March, but previous to that time the men had been working out in the gym since the middle of January in order to be in the pink when the weather cleared up. They started training three months before the first contest. Coach Kutler received marvelous cooperation and, as a result, had a wonderful team.

The track team maintained a steady improvement to finish its season one of the finest in Kenyon's history.

*First row—Handwork, Snellman, Posner, Ahrens.
Second row—Anderson, Octigan, Collyer, Straus, Wilson, Allen.
Third row—Coach Kutler, Kuehn, Kingery, Crittenden, Kadey, Kohnstamm, Shields.

Tennis

The 1942 Kenyon tennis squad featured team work rather than a star and a team. They did a beautiful job in spite of their loss of many letter-men. Ken Dalby, the Ohio Conference singles champion, reported, as did Bill McMurray, half of the Ohio Conference doubles champion duet. But, Alan MacDonald, runner-up to Dalby, and Carl Mitchel, the other half of the doubles champion duet, were not in school. To fill the places of these stars, there were Ken Burke, sophomore from Springfield, Ohio (where he holds the city singles championship), and Bob Derham, flashy Chicago sophomore. The number five position on the squad was bitterly contested by Rich Miller and Murry Smith. The team was not brilliant, but it was well rounded and steady.

None of the boys was of the Don McNeill caliber, but they were plenty tough as far as the conference competition was concerned.

The matches that the team had scheduled were Miami (2), Kalamazoo, University of Cincinnati, and Oberlin.

This year the Ohio Conference Championship matches will be held at Oberlin on May 16, a little less than a week after graduation.

Burke, Dalby, McMurray, Smith.
Missing—Derham.

CAPT. "NED" BROUSE

Golf

The Kenyon Golf team had only one veteran report for practice for the 1942 season following the Spring vacation. This man was Ned Brouse, mainstay of the 1941 squad. It was Ned who consistently turned in the good scores during competition matches last year. Gabe Paolozzi, football and basketball star, who has been the terror of the intramural golf competition for the past two years, worked into the varsity this year. Clark Hackman, mainstay of the freshman squad last season, moved up to a berth on the varsity.

The golf team played their home matches at the Mt. Vernon Country Club, a tricky nine-hole course. It is a par 72 course, and is said to be tough. The team opposed Miami, Denison, and Oberlin (each two times) and several others. The golf schedule, like all spring sport schedules, was cut down due to the accelerated program. To compensate for the slash of the number of scheduled matches there is considerable talk about continuing competition during the summer term.

Miller, Eckley, VandenBerg, Brouse, Paolozzi, Hackman

Kuehn, Snellman, Kaufholz, Kingery (Capt.), Reinheimer

Cross Country Team

For the first time in six years Kenyon had an organized cross-country team last Fall. Varsity distance men, Reinheimer, Snellman, and Capt. Ken Kingery formed the nucleus of the team, which won its only dual meet, with Ashland, and placed fourth in the Ohio Conference meet at Oberlin. Sophomore Otto Kuehn, and soph transfer, John Kaufholz, rounded out the five-man team, which worked hard on the track and over Gambier's hills for two full months. The team was under the tutelage of Bexley student, Lloyd Gressle, a former Oberlin track star.

In the first meet of the year, a triangular meet with Oberlin and Case, Kingery finished third and Reinheimer eleventh in a large field, over a four-mile course. In a dual meet with Ashland, Kingery won the five-mile grind, with Reinheimer, Snellman, and Kaufholz in 3rd, 4th, and 5th positions respectively. It was Kenyon's first such victory in many years.

Only Kingery and Reinheimer ran for Kenyon at the Ohio Conference, but placed third and seventh in the large and fast field, thereby gaining fourth place in the conference.

The 1941 team ran under Conference rules, but paid its own expenses with the help of several loyal Kenyon faculty men.

The Kenyon College Lacrosse Team

The Kenyon College Lacrosse Club, which pioneered lacrosse in the midwest and won the mid-west championship last year by defeating Oberlin and Michigan, has postponed its season until the summer session.

Last year, after the yearbook was out, the Kenyon Lacrosse Club sent Capt. Ed Chamberlain to the All-Star game in Maryland, by invitation. This is the biggest game in this country and it is quite an honor to have a Kenyon man play in it.

The cancelled schedule for this spring was to include an invitational spring vacation series between Kenyon, Annapolis, and the University of Maryland—in Maryland. Kenyon was invited to be the guest of these teams during spring vacation. The other games were to be with Oberlin, University of Michigan, Gow Club, and a possible game with Rensselaer Poly. Institute.

The fact that the team was asked to put on an exhibition game in Mt. Vernon this spring for a Navy Relief benefit shows the recognized existence it has. Nationally it is almost famous as a pioneer team amongst lacrosse players as proved by the fact that the club's coach was made a member of the United States Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association and placed on the staff of the Lacrosse Guide and Rule Book.
